UNEARTH BLIND TIGER IN RAID

Police Make Big Haul in Commercial Block and Get Twelve Cases of Beer.

HAVE NAMES OF ELEVEN MEN

Put in Unexpected Appearance and Crowd Scatters in Every Direction.

Chief of Police McAllister and his assistant, John Wolters unearthed a life-sized "blind tiger" and in all probability a big crap game yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock in a raid on one of the rear rooms in the Commercial block. The raid was pulled off quietly and the police say they have enough evidence to convict all who were caught in the room.

The place was tipped off to the police, it is said, because of the fact that at least 25 or 30 men had at different times yesterday paid a visit to the Commercial block. The officers noticed a steady stream of men going and coming from there all forenoon and their suspicions were aroused. The two officers entered the large hallway and saw one man coming from the room. They asked him what he was doing up there and by the time they were half through questioning him another started out, but seeing the police, slammed the door and went back inside. The fun commenced as soon as he went back, for there was a grand rush for the rear stairs.

As fast as they filed out Policeman Wolters got their names and in all eleven men were caught. Their names were not made public, but will be when they appear before Mayor B. A. Black in a few days. After all had disappeared the two officers entered the room. Here they found twelve cases of beer. About seven cases were filled while the rest contained empties. In the center of the floor was a tub filled with cold ones and about 200 pounds of ice was kept in reserve. They also found a table about six or seven feet long. It is supposed by the police that this was used to shoot crops on.

The men were in such a hurry to leave that collars, neckties and handkerchiefs were very much in evidence and the police have quite a collection. The "blind tiger" and the rest of the paraphernalia were taken to the mayor's office and will be used as evidence. People passing by, not knowing what was going on and seeing the dray backed up and the beer loaded on were under the impression that it was a bunch of people starting camping. The police say they believe they know the men who were running the place and from the number of empties they were doing a good business until interrupted. They also believe a crap game was in progress and all the men caught will be prosecuted.

The police say they have had a "hunch" that something of this kind had been going on up in this room for some time and all that was necessary was to wait until the opportune time. It is said several complaints have been registered with the police concerning the unlawful sale of liquor and gambling going on in this place.

This was the second raid in the past few weeks. It will be remembered that the first one was at Riverside park. Chief of Police McAllister intends to put a stop to all gambling and other raids may yet follow. The trial has not yet been set as Prosecutor Dennis O'Neil has been ill and the cases will be heard as soon as he improves.

TAKE SEINE AND PERMIT

Deputies Capture Goods on Ben Riley of Sandusky.

Several complaints have reached Fish Commissioner George W. Miles that agents appointed by the commission to seine for undesirable fish had been guilty of saving out the game fish. Thursday, Deputies W. E. Lanphere and B. F. Kelley came down and quietly investigated several cases. They got the proof on Ben Riley of Sandusky, and took up his seine and commission. They have almost enough proof to take up a few more and may do so. Those who have permits to seine must not abuse the privileges if they want to hold their commission for the commissioner means that the bass must be thrown back.

BIGGEST WHEAT YIELD REPORTED

John K. Fielding of Near Glenwood Threshed Two Fields, Averaging 33 and 32 Bushels.

GRAIN IS UP TO THE STANDARD

So far this season the best yield of wheat has been reported from over Glenwood way. John K. Fielding, living near there, has threshed two fields of grain. One of them averaged thirty-two bushels to the acre, and the other made thirty-three bushels to the acre. This is by far the best yield announced this year and is considered very unusual. The wheat graded well and weighed up to the standard, which has already been set this season. Most of the wheat which has been coming into the elevators all over the county has weighed on an average of fifty-nine pounds to the bushel and the greater part of it grades number two which is a much better quality than usual. The yield on the Fielding farm is believed to be far above the average as most of the yields so far reported have been much lower than that. From the first it has been expected that wheat would grade well, but that the yield would be low. Local elevators are paying eighty cents a bushel for new wheat.

STORM OFFERS RELIEF FROM HEAT

Mercury Hits Toboggan as Lightning Plays About City With Terrific Reports.

NO BAD DAMAGE IS REPORTED

Although a very severe electrical storm passed over this city and a portion of the county this afternoon, no damage had been reported up to a late hour. The lightning was very close and apparently struck something, but no stories of damaging strikes could be learned in any part of the county. In the business district lightning played on the telephone and telegraph wires and many telephones were burned out.

The storm offered great relief from the heat which was more intense than yesterday. The mercury rose to ninety-seven degrees at noon and then hit the toboggan shortly after one o'clock, when the storm cloud approached from the northeast.

MOTORCYCLE HIT CLYDE KITCHEN

Thrilling Accident Saturday Evening Witnessed by Large Crowd, Many of Whom Thought Him Killed.

HAD A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Was Knocked Into Fender on the J. H. Frazee Automobile and Rendered Unconscious.

Clyde Kitchen of Richland township, while standing in the street at the corner of Main and Second streets Saturday evening about 6:30 o'clock, was hit by a motorcycle driven by Will Horr of Vincennes and thrown against the fender of the J. H. Frazee automobile. He was severely bruised, but it is said nothing serious will result.

Witnesses to the accident say that Kitchen was fortunate in not being killed and so sure were many that he would be that they turned their heads and women screamed in terror. Horr, the rider of the motorcycle, was going south in Main street and was turning to go west in Second street when he hit Kitchen. The automobile was going east in Second and way was just about to make the turn north in Main when the accident occurred.

Miss Florence Frazee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Frazee, was driving the automobile and showed remarkable presence of mind by stopping the heavy machine almost instantly. Hit by the motorcycle and knocked into the automobile, Kitchen lay limp on the pavement, with the wheels of the auto only about a foot from his head. He was carried into the Wolcott drug store where he soon revived. That he was not seriously injured is considered by many as being miraculous. It is said that Horr was going about 25 miles per hour when he hit Kitchen. Miss Frazee was going slow or perhaps Kitchen would have been killed.

The accident attracted a large crowd and the blame for the accident was placed on no one in particular although the police believe one of the parties was at fault. It will be recalled that the city has a vehicle ordinance regulating the traffic and if this had been followed it is said the accident could have been averted. If Horr was going at the speed he is said to have been going he was running too fast for a congested street. That corner of the city is where traffic is the heaviest, but still many people insist in standing in the street, when they should be on the sidewalk. The chances are that if Kitchen had not been standing in the street especially at the intersection of two thoroughfares he would not have been hit. The police have investigated the matter and probably will take no action.

WHEEL IS TWISTED OFF

Haskell Higgins is Thrown Off of Aldridge Delivery Wagon.

In turning around near the corner of Second and Main streets this morning, the right back wheel on the A. L. Aldridge grocery wagon was twisted off and the driver, Haskell Higgins was thrown off on to the brick pavement. Besides a number of bruises and a few sore spots from the fall, the boy was not hurt. The horse stopped when the accident happened and stood quietly while the wagon was being arranged so that it could be taken to a repair shop.

DEFECTIVE SHELL SAVES MAN'S LIFE

Nightwatchman Scanlan Presses Revolver to Strangers Breast and Pulls Trigger.

BUT TO FAILS TO EXPLODE

Unidentified Men Attack Officer When he Orders Them Home, and Beat Him—Self Defense.

The fact that Tom Scanlan, night watchman and merchant policeman, had a defective cartridge in one of the cavities of the cylinder of his revolver, saved the life of an unidentified man Saturday night, when two strangers attacked the nightwatchman, knocked him down and were beating him after he had ordered them off the streets. Both men were intoxicated. They have never been identified and it is probable that they never will be. Policeman Scanlan is inclined to believe that they were two foreigners who are employed on the street construction gang here.

The two men were drinking and carousing Saturday night and had caused considerable trouble around over the streets. They made their way with difficulty to the big stairway of the Commercial block which opens on to Main street. There they saw fit to become rather loud as they cursed and swore and made remarks at pedestrians who were out late Saturday night.

Sidney Haggard, colored, cook at the Scanlan House, who rooms in the block, was awakened by the noise and his slumbers were disturbed until it over reached the point of forbearance. After the men continued and showed no disposition to put an end to the carousal before the chickens began to crow, Sidney resolved to call the police.

He finally succeeded in getting in connection with Tom Scanlan and told him of the trouble. The night policeman appeared at the stairway entrance and ordered the two men home. They refused to go and he told them they must obey or suffer the consequences.

It was rather dark up in the entrance and before the policeman knew what was going on, a fist suddenly emerged from the darkness and struck him squarely in the face. Mr. Scanlan's glasses were knocked off and there were only a few more blows in quick succession before he was on the sidewalk.

According to the police, both men jumped on the nightwatchman and began pounding his body and tramping him with their feet. They struck him with their fists and resorted to every method to injure him. It was imminent that it was a case of a life for a life and the night policeman decided that it should not be he who lost. He succeeded in freeing his right arm and he reached for his pocket where his revolver was hidden.

CHOLERA CAUSES LOSSES

Reported Many Hogs Are Dying in Clarksburg Vicinity.

Advices from Clarksburg are to the effect that several farmers in that vicinity are suffering heavy losses to their hogs which are dying in numbers from cholera, says the Greensburg News. Particularly hard hit has been Henry Harvest who has had many head to die this season. Ed Tarplee, also a well known farmer in that locality, had been fighting cholera that has developed among his hogs. These men are doing everything they can in the way of checking the disease, as as soon as a hog dies with cholera they immediately cremate the carcass.

AUTOMOBILE TURNS TURTLE

Steering Knuckle Breaks and Machine Goes Into Ditch Pining Occupants Under Car.

ACCIDENT NEAR BATESVILLE

Henry O'Neil Suffers Broken Collar Bone While Rest of Party is Bruised and Cut.

A thrilling automobile accident occurred yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock when the car in which were George Reeve, Henry O'Neil, Eddie McKee, Carl Helvey, Berlin Caldwell and John Schrichte turned turtle two miles west of Batesville. Henry O'Neil suffered a broken right color bone and the rest of the party received many cuts and bruises. The automobile was demolished.

The automobile was going east toward Batesville and at a point about two miles from that place the steering knuckle locked or broke and Mr. Reeve, who was driving the machine lost control. At the place where the accident happened there is a large bank or water shed on one side of the road and the automobile dashed into this. The car turned a complete somersault and was turned around so that the hood faced the direction from which they had just come.

The accident happened so quickly that none of the occupants had time to jump and all were pinned under the machine. The glass from the wind shield was scattered over the party and several deep cuts were inflicted. A physician was summoned from Batesville and dressed their injuries. O'Neil was the worst injured of any. His right collar bone was found to be splintered and he suffered considerably from other bruises.

The road at the point where the smash-up took place is very treacherous and the party are all unanimous in saying that they were lucky in escaping with their lives. Mr. Reeve, driver of the machine is of the opinion that the steering knuckle either broke or became locked and when he lost control the heavy machine skidded and turned turtle. The automobile was a seven passenger Speedwell and belonged to Mr. Reeves. The machine is almost a total wreck, the top and body being crushed the axles bent and twisted so badly that when righted the weight could not be sustained and the machine collapsed.

Reports of the accident reached this city last night and were badly exaggerated. Rumor had it that at least two were killed and there had been a number of arms and legs broken. But the accident was not this bad and the only bones broken was that of O'Neil.

Little Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Chadwick Passed Away.

Nyda, the 14-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Chadwick, died shortly after four o'clock this morning at their home in North Morgan street. She had been seriously ill since June 8, suffering with Bright's disease and for the past few days little hope had been expressed for her recovery. Her parents and three sisters survive. The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the residence. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

TO MAKE FIGHT ON KIND OF MATERIAL

Residents of Perkins Street Will Oppose Improvement of Street With Brick For Various Reasons.

ARE COLLECTING FUNDS NOW

It is expected in the light of developments of the last few days, that residents of Perkins street will make a fight against brick streets when the petition to pave the street is considered by the city council. A petition has been circulated and money is being collected to pay attorneys' fees in the case so that practically every preparation has been made.

A well known resident of the street who was active in the warfare against the petition in commissioners' court, when it was defeated, said this afternoon that the majority of the residents of the portion of the street that is to be paved, were against brick streets because they believed it was not the sort of material to be used in improving residential streets. He said, however, that the majority of them realized the futility of fighting the petition before the council, except in this manner.

AN EXTRADITION
CASE AT ISSUE

Parallel to McNamara Case
At Indianapolis.

PRISONERS SPIRITED AWAY

Requisition for Two Alleged Confidence Men Wanted in Ohio Was Resisted by the Prosecutor It Is Said In Order to Get a Ruling From Circuit Court, But Detectives Beat Him to It and Got Prisoners Away.

Indianapolis, July 10.—It develops that Prosecutor Baker, in attempting to defeat the extradition of the two alleged confidence men to Ohio, was trying to justify the indictment of Detective Burns for the alleged kidnapping of McNamara, and that the attempt was not made until the very last moment, or when the two prisoners were in an auto and ready to start to the railway station. Gov. Marshall had acted upon the requisition just as in the McNamara case, and precisely the same action had been taken by Judge Collins of the police court, yet the attorney of the two prisoners had been notified more than a week before that the requisitions were on the way, and would be presented to the governor.

It is said that Prosecutor Baker, in ordering that the turning over of the prisoners to the Ohio detective be disregarded, wished to bring the question of arrest and identification before the circuit court, have the proceedings set aside, and retain the men here under workhouse sentences. This result, he believed, would go to sustain the indictment of Detective Burns, but the two men were spirited away, and the local detectives disclaim any responsibility in connection with the case. Lawyers look upon Baker's action as being inspired by union labor which wants to set up a precedent against the regularity of McNamara's extradition.

FATAL AUTO CRASH

Racing Machine Dashes Into Auto Load of Orphans On Outing.

Louisville, Ky., July 9.—One child was killed, two fatally injured and nine more or less injured when an automobile loaded with inmates of the Masonic Widows' and Orphans' Home was struck by another automobile, racing in a boulevard in a local suburb. The automobile containing the orphans was returning from a day's outing at a local park, and had nearly completed its journey to the home, when the accident occurred. An automobile owned by Marlon E. Taylor, a local distiller, was racing another automobile, and just before it reached the machine containing the children, the front tire became loosened, causing the machine to swerve and crash into the machine loaded with orphans. Both autos were hurled from the boulevard and were upset on an embankment.

NO PLACE FOR LOVE

Teachers Must Not Wed While Under Contract With School Board.

Wabash, Ind., July 10.—According to a ruling of the Wabash county board of education, no girl who is engaged to be married during the coming year will be employed to teach in the schools of Wabash county. Members of the board frowned upon the "newlywed" teacher, and say that she cannot successfully reign over both a home and a schoolroom.

The board goes still further and says that when a teacher weds she will be discharged. Past experience has taught the school authorities that the woman just married loses her proficiency as an instructor. There are a number of women teaching in the county who have been married several years, and they will be retained, but single ones must not marry and expect to hold their positions.

Lightning Strikes Wagon Load.

Barboursville, Ky., July 10.—One man was killed and another probably fatally injured here when lightning struck a carryall filled with people going to a baseball game. Ted Ballard was dead when his companions had extricated themselves from the debris of the vehicle, and Charles MacDonald was unconscious. Several others were bruised and shocked. Although the wagon was demolished, the horses escaped injury.

See Case Nearing An End.

Chicago, July 10.—Both the state and defense in the trial of Arthur Evelyn See, charged with the abduction of Mildred Bridges, have rested their cases, and arguments began today. It is expected the case will reach the jury before Wednesday.

Paris, July 10.—The winnings of the birdmen, who flew in the aviation circuit race were as follows: Beaumont, $32,330; Vidart, $12,860; Garros, $11,200; Vedrines, $10,400; Gilbert, $6,800. There remains $20,000 to be adjudged.

JUDGE O'REAR HAD AN EASY THING IN RACE

Won Out in Kentucky Primary By Big Majority.

Frankfort, Ky., July 10.—Judge O'Rear, of Mt. Sterling, will be the next Republican nominee for governor. In the mass convention held in the 119 counties Saturday, Judge O'Rear carried 75 counties, and 246 instructed delegates in Jefferson county and Louisville are at his disposal.

Not counting the contested delegations, most of whom will be seated as O'Rear delegates, the returns from the mass conventions show that Judge O'Rear has 1,500 instructed votes. And only 1,179 are necessary for choice.

Judge O'Rear said before leaving for Louisville, that when the returns came in he would have about 1,700 instructed votes, and that his majority would be as large as the instructed votes of his opponents, William H. Cox, of Maysville, and E. T. Franks, of Owensboro.

There was practically no fight against Judge O'Rear in any of the counties outside of the whiskey centers. With the exception of Franklin county, Warren county and Graves county, there was not much of a contest. Following is the slate in full:

Governor—Judge Ed C. O'Rear, Montgomery county.

Lieutenant Governor—Mayor E. S. Helburn, Middlesboro.

Auditor—L. W. Bethurum, Rockcastle county.

Attorney General—Tom McGregor, Marshall county.

Secretary of State—Ed Farley.

Treasurer—Herman Monroe, Louisville.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—J. W. Vinson, Caldwell county.

CAN'T SUE ITSELF

Illinois State Institutions Not Included In Ten Hour Law.

Springfield, Ill., July 10.—Attorney General Stead, in an opinion rendered to the state board of administration holds that the women's ten hour law does not apply to any of the state institutions.

Mr. Stead says that unless there is a specific provision in the act to that effect, the law does not apply to the state institutions, the state being sovereign, and being always excluded from legislation from citizens.

It would be ridiculous, says the attorney-general, for the state to institute suits against itself and impose penalties on itself, as it would have to do if its institutions were included in the provisions of the act.

A Boy and a Gun.

Centralia, Ill., July 10.—Mrs. Clara Swick, twenty-nine years old, is dead at her home at Rose Hill, near here, as the result of being shot accidentally by her son, Carl, ten, who was playing with a revolver he did not know was loaded.

Contemplate Damage Suit.

Hartford City, Ind., July 10.—Relatives of Clyde Prentiss, twenty-seven years old, who was electrocuted at the plant of the American Window Glass company, have announced that they will file suit for damages against the company.

Watch Your Kidneys.

Their action controls your health. Read what Foley Kidney Pills have done for your neighbor. W. H. Applegate of Shelbyville, Ind., says that "I have long been troubled with kidney trouble and for the past few years it has been of a far more serious nature and caused me much worry. My limbs were all swollen up with rheumatism. My back pained me terribly, so that I could hardly get around and my kidneys were very weak and made me get up several times each night. I then started taking Foley Kidney Pills and they built my kidneys right up, giving them strength and causing them to act naturally. I am never bothered now with getting up at night and the swelling and rheumatism in my limbs has entirely left and I feel like a new man. I can safely recommend Foley Kidney Pills as the quickest and best cure for kidney and bladder trouble that I know of." F. B. Johnson

SANITATION OF THE HOME

Avers Unclean Methods of Housewives In Handling Foodstuffs is Worse Than Adulterations.

The sanitary handling of food-stuffs about the home is far more important than a battle against food adulteration, is the assertion of J. N. Hurty, secretary of the state board of health. Dr. Hurty declares that the ordinary adulteration of various foods injures "the pocketbook early," while the unsanitary method employed by many housewives in the handling of fruit, canned foodstuffs and other materials in the home is injurious to the body itself.

Dr. Hurty also asserts that all fruits should be washed thoroughly before being served on the table or preserved. "More and more evidence accumulates that the sanitation on food establishments, the sanitation of farmhouses, where cows' butter, fruit butter and other similar food-stuffs, are of far more importance than food adulteration," declared Dr. Hurty.

"With rare exceptions, foods never were adulterated with materials injurious to health. For example, the adulteration of sausage with corn meal, or spices with ground cocoanut shells, touches the pocket only."

"Neither is the adulteration of butter by emulsifying it with milk injurious to health, nor the substituting of cane sugar for maple sugar, nor the adding of corn flour to wheat flour. Health, in none of these instances, is attacked; but when even unadulterated foods are handled under insanitary conditions, then health is affected. An instance will illustrate."

"One evening recently I was passing on Ohio street, Indianapolis, along the north end of the suburban freight depots, and I observed that a split basket (about two pecks) of cherries had jolted off a dray loaded with like baskets. The fruit was spilled upon the ground. The two men in charge were scooping the cherries from the dirty street with filth-covered hands, placing them in the basket."

"I asked them if they intended to return the basket to its former place on the dray when all the cherries were picked up and proceed as if the fruit had not been in the dirt. They said, 'sure.' I told them it was not at all sure, and after some argument, they said they would not send the polluted cherries to market. Being of little faith and to make certain I poured over them a pint of coal oil which was purchased at double price from a boy who happened to be passing with a small can of John D.'s best."

"First Moral—Wash your cherries."

"Second Moral—Remember the sanitary handling of foods is of greater importance than the prevention on adulteration."

DOCTOR CAME NEAR
SHARING HARD FATE

Kentucky's First Electrocuting
Otherwise Was Success.

Eddysville, Ky., July 10.—When the first execution under the new law providing electrocution in place of hanging, took place in the state penitentiary here, it came near ending in the death of two persons instead of one.

Prison Physician R. H. Moss stepped forward to feel the pulse of the negro, who formed the first subject, before the current had been turned off, and barely missed having several thousand volts pass through his body.

A warning cry from the penitentiary electrician did not deter the doctor, who misunderstanding the caution, still advanced, when a second warning had to be given before he understood.

The negro, James Buckner, paid the death penalty for the murder of a policeman at Lebanon, Ky., several weeks ago. The report of the first electrocution declares it to have been a success, except for the slight burning of the negro's head.

Mill's Engine Room Collapsed.

South Bend, Ind., July 10.—The engine room at the plant of the Mishawaka Woolen Mills company suddenly collapsed and toppled into the mill race which flows under the building. The loss is estimated at $50,000, the acid tanks and heavy transmission machinery being carried down by the falling walls and wrecked. The employees of the mill had just been released from duty, and there was no one in the room when the crash came.

Fatally Injured In Runaway.

Hartford City, Ind., July 10.—Peter Mannix, seventy-six years old, a farmer, was fatally injured when a buggy in which he was riding was run down and demolished by a runaway team on East Washington street.

One Feature In Which Brussels Out-doss London or Paris.

There are many bewildering street names in European cities, and of these London presents a bewildering variety. Dermondsey possesses a Pickle Herring street. Near Gray's Inn there is to be found a Cold Bath square. Most of the Nightingale lanes and Love lanes are hidden, ironically enough, in the slums of the east end of the British capital.

In Brussels some of the street names are really bizarre. The Short Street of the Long Chariot, the Street of the Red Haired Women and the Street of Sorrows are remarkable enough to catch the least observant eye. The Street of the One Person is, as one might guess, an extremely narrow one. But the cream of the Brussels street name surely belongs to the Street of the Un-cracked Silver Cocoanut. This in the original appears as one ponderous word of thirty-six letters.

The 7,000 inhabitants of the Rue des Mauvais Garcons signed a petition praying that the name of the street be changed. They contended that the denomination of the thoroughfare in which they reside produces a bad impression on those to whom they are obliged to give their address.

This Street of the Bad Boys was, it appears, so named in the sixteenth century because of the noisy character of its inhabitants. But now it needs no such designation, those who reside there being for the most part peaceful and respectable citizens.

Among the peculiar street names in Paris may be mentioned the Street of the Little Windows, the Street of the Mule's Foot, the Street of the Holy Fathers, the Street of the Daughters of Calvary, the Street of the Dry Tree, the Street of the Empty Pocket and the Boulevard of the Good News.—Harper's Weekly.

RHEUMATISM

Yields Readily to Simple Remedy—
Well-Known American Chemist
Discovers Process for Making Sulphur Soluble.

For centuries it was known to the great men of medical science that if Nature has provided a certain, yet simple remedy for Rheumatism, Gout and Blood Disease, the hope of those so afflicted lay in the use of sulphur.

And now Nature has given up her secret. A great chemist has succeeded in making sulphur as soluble as sugar or salt. Heretofore sulphur could be and was taken with great benefit even though insoluble, but now it can be absorbed directly into the blood and thus accomplish wonderfully curative results.

SULFOSOL is the name of this new vitalizer of the blood, this expeller of uric acid and other blood taints and conqueror of Rheumatism and Gout. Get it of your nearest druggist or write to the Sulfosol Company, 72 Trinity Place, New York, for a free book on Rheumatism and Blood Disease and the successful use of Sulfosol in their treatment.

DOCTOR CAME NEAR

Kentucky's First Electrocuting
Otherwise Was Success.

Eddysville, Ky., July 10.—When the first execution under the new law providing electrocution in place of hanging, took place in the state penitentiary here, it came near ending in the death of two persons instead of one.

Prison Physician R. H. Moss stepped forward to feel the pulse of the negro, who formed the first subject, before the current had been turned off, and barely missed having several thousand volts pass through his body.

A warning cry from the penitentiary electrician did not deter the doctor, who misunderstanding the caution, still advanced, when a second warning had to be given before he understood.

The negro, James Buckner, paid the death penalty for the murder of a policeman at Lebanon, Ky., several weeks ago. The report of the first electrocution declares it to have been a success, except for the slight burning of the negro's head.

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Grew a Full Growth of Hair on a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin. Until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

BUTTERMILK IS THE IDEAL DRINK

Much In Rush County is Fed to Hogs When it Might be Utilized.

THAT VS. THE HOP EXTRACT

Seldom During Summer Months That Supply of Nutritious Drink Equals Demand.

Millions of gallons of buttermilk produced annually in home churning on the farm are fed to the hogs of Rush county live stock raisers, when there is a great demand, especially from May to October, for the same in Rushville and other cities. It is seldom in June, July and August that the supply of this nutritious, tempting and delightful beverage, especially in cities equals the demand.

The buttermilk habit as possessed by many, is easily acquired and is constantly reaching out for and finding fresh recruits, who readily and quickly succumb to the tempting lacteal drink, realizing that they can indulge in it to their heart's content and it will not affect them mentally or bring about unfitness for work in any other form. On the other hand the beverage bestows physical advantages on all who drink it regularly, making the weak strong and giving more vitality and therefore, greater resisting power against the weariness and exhaustion which follows heavy, tedious toil. Nothing is better for the digestive organs, it keeping them in good shape and thereby helping to combat disease germs.

The only effect of overindulgence in buttermilk is that it adds tissue and fat to the human system, but these extra pounds, unlike the unhealthy overweight produced by constant inhibition of alcoholic stimulants, are the result of healthy condition and can readily be changed into muscles and sinews by proper and regular exercise.

Some stock raisers opine that it pays better to feed buttermilk to hogs than to go to the trouble of sending all they have to the market, but that is a question they must answer for themselves, depending probably chiefly on how far away the nearest city is and the time of the year. For good rich buttermilk, 30 cents a gallon can be asked and readily obtained if the season is right and hot weather prevails.

And why is the demand for buttermilk increasing? Because for a long time physicians have been pointing to the fact that it is the best hot weather drink. They have said that it is the most easily digested, the most cooling, the most helpful. They have declared it even an excellent hot weather food. And, besides that, there are comparatively few people, it is said, who don't take to buttermilk naturally, like a duck to water.

According to people who devote much of their time to selling thirst-quenching beverages, buttermilk has, for the last five years, steadily increased in popularity as a hot weather drink, until today it is the most sought after of all, having surpassed such rivals as the one favored ice cream soda, the mint smash or the entrancing julep.

When the thermometer hovers between 88 and 95 buttermilk becomes the cup that cheers and never inebriates, no matter how plentifully imbibed. Drink experts say so. They say that this once more or less despised liquid is now called for more frequently than most any other in country clubs, in drug stores, in hotels, in restaurants and in buffets.

TOMATOES ONCE SHUNNED

Fruit, Once Considered Poisonous, is Now Big Industry.

There are many people still living who can remember the time when the tomato was raised merely for its beauty, as roses are raised now. While it was admired it was considered like poisonous oak, dangerous to even handle except by "dark complected persons." Years of acquaintance and a few "fool-hardy" people actually owned up to having tasted the fruit. From this small beginning has gradually grown a use that makes today an industry with a combined capital of over thirty millions of dollars, which disburses millions of dollars to its employees each year and aggregates an output of two hundred and forty million cans.

Never leave home on a journey without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed and cannot be obtained when on board the cars or steamships. For sale by All Dealers.

The Lightning Bugaboo.

With the coming of the thunderstorms that accompany the extremes of heat, many people are again miserable. Nearly everyone has some neighbor whose uneasiness begins from the moment a little thunderhead pokes its nose above the horizon, the progress of which across the sky is watched with fear stricken eyes.

It may comfort such persons to know that the average proportion of deaths from lightning is five in a million. It is much more dangerous to ride on a railroad train.

Of that five in a million, a good proportion of cases were preventable by ordinary common sense, by not sheltering beneath some conspicuous isolated tree, by keeping indoors and not close to windows, doors or chimneys.

The worst danger about a thunderstorm is that you have forgotten to renew your insurance on some isolated building. For lightning is a real danger to inflammable property, if not to human beings.

A Washington dispatch says that Senator Cummins treats with contempt and Senator Borah with mirth the suggestion that one or the other be chosen as the Republican vice-presidential candidate, says the Muncie Press. The man who thinks he is big enough to look down on the vice presidency of the United States must be suffering with an exaggerated ego. To be chosen to the second place in the national government and designated as successor to the presidency by the American people is an honor to be coveted by any man. The custom of sneering at the vice presidency is not only silly but harmful. Proper respect should be accorded to a position it is extremely important should be filled at all times by a man worthy to succeed to the presidency.

An enterprising newspaper at San Antonio, Texas, offered a prize to the boy killing the largest number of flies on July 3. "Swatting the fly" became as popular as marbles, spinning a top and various other boyish games. Counting "the kill" was out of the question, as they came in in sacks, paper boxes, paper bags and some in express wagons, so measuring was required. Texas has thus been deprived of many disease carriers and the youth has had a good lesson in combatting unhealthy conditions.

While Senator Fleming, author of the Proctor "regulation" act was extolling the measure at Fort Wayne and telling his audience that it constituted a guarantee of law enforcement, every saloon in Indianapolis, according to the Indianapolis News, was running wide open in violation of the law prohibiting the retailing of liquor on a national holiday. The pretense that the Proctor act will insure better enforcement of the liquor laws is a humbug of huge proportions.

The Woman Waits.

Who has not, in passing in an evening before some cottage or mansion maybe, caught a fleeting glimpse through the window pane of a woman's eager face peering from behind the curtain at the sound of footsteps and then fading into blankness at sight of form not looked for?

You have seen it, perhaps, many, many times. If not, then the first and simplest lesson in the deep mystery of a woman's life is to you only a dream undreamt.

The woman is waiting.

For what? God and she alone know. There are so many things a woman may wait for.

Perhaps it for the lover.

Or the good and devoted husband, away winning the bread and for whom supper is ready.

Or the child at play, whose time for return has passed and whose way home night threatens to darken.

Or the wayward daughter, whose pathway is ever dark but for the unfailing light of the mother's love.

Or—who knows—the gallant son reported dead in shipwreck, distant land or battle, but for whose return she can never cease to hope and pray.

Or—God help her then! the drunkard husband.

But there she waits.

Aye, thus a woman ever waits. From the dawn of her birth to the night of her death she waits. She waits and longs and hopes and prays.

It is not so with man. His faith is in his strength. He sets his shoulder to the storm and with firm resolve and what he seeks to do he does—or fails. And if success be his some woman shares of it, and if he fails some woman waits.

And so she waits.

In her fresh, sweet young womanhood she knows a youth who pleases her, but he is cold and she must wait until he comes and wooes.

Or else, perchance, she loves too well, and when the faithless lover lags she waits—she waits.

When husband turns from her to other joys she waits—she weeps and waits.

How often she in midnight gloom beside the couch of dying child must watch and wait, hope and wait, pray and wait!

Ah, man knows not the love and faith, the patience sweet with which a woman waits!

Her waiting is not weakness, though; it is her strength.

If you, brave man have ever been in battle line amid a hell of shell and rifle shot, and must not fire, but wait and wait and wait! why, then you know what courage is. They say it is the highest type.

But woman ever waits.

The faith sublime with which the woman waits spiritualizes earth and humanizes heaven.

RUMOR IS THAT COUPLE ELOPED

Ethel Walker of Shelbyville and
 Ralph Senour of Clarksburg

OUTWIT THEIR RELATIVES

Leave Shelbyville Presumably For St.

Joe, Mich., to be Wedded—No
 Parental Objection.

Miss Ethel Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Walker, on the Rush-Decatur county line, and Ralph Senour of Clarksburg, were the principals in a mysterious elopement from this city Saturday night, says the Shelbyville news. The couple left here on the west-bound Big Four train, leaving Shelbyville at 11:11, presumably for St. Joe, Michigan, and have not since been heard from. No marriage license was issued here and it is supposed that the young people intended to have the wedding ceremony performed at St. Joe, some time today.

Mr. Senour has been in the habit of calling on Miss Walker several times each week during the past few months. He came to this city early Saturday afternoon and spent several hours at the Walker home. He called again in the evening and Miss Walker before leaving the house for a walk with him, told her mother that she intended to spend the night at the home of her sister, Mrs. Philip Hoop. The young people completed the planning of the details of their escape from Shelbyville while out walking and during a short time which they spent at the Hoop home.

No one was taken into the secret and Mrs. Walker, the mother of the bride-to-be was not aware of the absence of her daughter from the city until late Sunday morning when she learned that the young lady had not been at the Hoop home overnight. Miss Walker's parents state that there was no particular reason for the elopement as they had no objections to the match and would have been better pleased to have had the wedding ceremony performed at home. The eloping couple will have no trouble in obtaining the paternal blessings at the Walker home.

Miss Walker is an exceedingly pretty young woman with many charming qualities. She has hundreds of friends in this city and has always been a favorite among both friends and acquaintances. She is nineteen years of age.

Mr. Senour is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Senour, of Clarksburg, and is the junior member of the firm of Senour & Son, proprietors of a flourishing general merchandise store in the prosperous Decatur county town. The bride and groom will reside in Clarksburg. Mr. Senour is twenty-one years of age.

Mrs. Jesse Snider Makes Serious Allegations Against Husband.

Alleging that her husband married here merely for the purpose of escaping prosecution in paternity proceedings and that the marriage was therefore fraudulent, Mrs. Jesse Snider of Fountaintown has brought suit in the Shelby circuit court to collect from him a penalty of two hundred dollars, says the Shelbyville News. The proceeding is semi-criminal. Mr. Snider was placed under arrest Saturday by Sheriff Moore at the home of his mother, in Fountaintown, where he was sleeping peacefully when the sheriff arrived. He was brought to this city and taken before Judge Blair who placed him under bond of five hundred dollars. A brother of Mr. Snider went on his bond. The case will come up at the next term of court.

AMUSEMENTS

The Portola and Palace theaters will both have complete changes of program tonight.

The Vaudet will have a film tomorrow night that promises to be one of the most sensational pictures that was ever shown here. It is entitled "The Truth About the North Pole," and describes the wanderings of Dr. Frederick Cook in his attempt to locate the much-talked-of and much wanted pole. The picture is advertised as an international sensation which has startled the world, as no picture or story has ever done. It is described as the world's greatest conspiracy and the manner in which Dr. Cook's enemies attempted to defraud him out of the honor of the discovery is depicted with the minutest detail. The picture has been shown in Hammerstein's theater in New York City and there attracted the favorable comment of the metropolitan press. Tonight "Fifty Years Ago," a Powers drama, "The Two Blockades," a Lux drama, and "Tiding up Paris," a Lux comedy, will be shown tonight. "Do You Regret the Days Gone By?" will be the illustrated song.

CHAPTER IV.

It is now necessary that I take one step backward in my relation of this mysterious occurrence. I must go back to some time before the commission of the burglary and the entry of LeDuc upon the scene, in order that you may have all the facts presented to you as they were to that detective when he took hold of the case. Having made this new start I think I can proceed chronologically to the end of the case, detailing events in the order in which they happened. I am now beginning a few months before the robbery:

It was at this period of my life that I was cast under a spell. Hopelessly, helplessly and blindly I fell in love with a woman whose beauty was so aggressive that no mortal man could ignore it, while to attempt to describe it would be almost to insult it. I was about twenty-five then and she possibly four years older. My acquaintance with her began through the irrepressible Bruce.

I had dropped into the blue room of the Imperial for a bottle of ale and a cigar after the theater, when I ran into my cousin's arms. He beamed upon me.

"Delighted, old fellow. Just in time. Come—I want to introduce you." He grasped my hand with the grip of a wrestler. Now, you have to exercise a little discretion before agreeing to meet Bruce's friends, and I glanced around furtively. You can never tell whether the next minute you will be shaking hands with the Chinese ambassador or the latest popular pugilist, so as the latter gentleman would express it, I sparred a moment for wind.

"To whom?" I inquired. He nodded toward a near-by table at which sat two women and a man.

"To Dick Edwards—but I guess you know him already—and the two ladies. But especially to Mrs. Dace. If you want good company, you need not go any further, for you won't find any better anywhere." I asked him whom the especial Mrs. Dace might be, and he laughed with what I thought was a faint undercurrent of significance beneath it.

"Oh, I haven't time to tell. Widow of somebody who died somehow, which is enough to know all at once. Main thing is she is as beautiful as a houri and gracious as an empress, but wise, my boy, wise, wise. Also apparently is a person of some means, amount of means represented by X, meaning unknown quantity; source of means problem in higher mathematics very difficult of solution. But remember this: If you begin to feel sentimental when you look at her, remember that life is only a joke and laugh at yourself; but when it comes to wine, remember that life is a mighty serious proposition and stay sober. Come on now." In another moment he was introducing me.

"Mrs. Dace and Miss Lyndon—Mr. Halliday. Cousin of mine through no fault of his, but nevertheless highly recommended by me. I believe you have met him, Dick, and will confirm me. Sorry I have to go, but he will fill my place and round out your party. Good night all," and he was gone.

I took my chair with a quick mental inventory of my new acquaintances. Miss Lyndon was tall, waspy and good looking in an indolent blond way; Edwards was a prosperous looking man of about thirty-five; Mrs. Dace positively startling. From a purely physical standpoint her beauty was gorgeous. But so wonderfully complex was it that it could no more be analyzed by one glance than a can painted masterpiece. While its general effect was to cause a gasp of delight at first sight, when you looked again you saw that its perfection was the result of the exquisite blending of many tints into an incomparable whole. Never had I seen a mouth so bewitching, lips so rich of smile so dazzling. Her hair was changeable as an opal, her brows wonderfully arched, her eyes royal blue and bordered by long lashes that screened them as ferns shade deep forest pools. She was wonderful. Fascinated by her beauty for a moment I sat silently as she calmly surveyed me, one perfect hand idly toying with a small gold mouse that lay upon the table. Then far down in the sea depths of her blue eyes I saw faint amusement gathering and I drew myself together with a start. Edwards was explaining:

"You see, we had arranged for a theater party and there were to be four of us. Then at the last hour Mrs. Dace's escort became slightly indisposed and she came down alone and met Miss Lyndon and myself. We are now about to have something to eat, and possibly a wee bit to drink. I happened to see your cousin Bruce and hailed him to join us, but it seems he has an excuse. Then he providentially happened to spy you and impressed you into his place to complete the party. So everybody is happy once more."

While I am no such gabbler as Bruce, I think I can hold my own in any fairly well regulated conversation. I rose to the occasion. The wine oiled my tongue and Mrs. Dace's little applauding laughs and nods of approval spurred my wit. Edwards seemed content to remain comparatively quiet; Miss Lyndon was too indolent to care to do other than be entertained; Mrs. Dace was a sympathetic listener, and without effort I held the floor. I had read considerably, and the pigeon holes of my memory were well stocked with the aphorisms of the sages. Through the simple effort of recollection I became philosopher, theologian, poet. To the soft patter of their applause I even soared to original heights. In the parlance of the stage, I made a hit. In fact when one o'clock came and with it the intimation from Mrs. Dace that she must depart, it was only after a little sigh that reached my ears alone, and a flash from her wonderful eyes that quickly hid themselves behind the screening lashes as I looked deep into them. Of the perpendicular bill I paid my half without pang, secretly philosophized by the knowledge that the gods won't allow us to be in their debt, and when man wines and dines with woman he must pay for it with the glistening jewels of his brow. We prepared to depart.

Edwards paved the way for me. "Mrs. Dace lives at the Arcadia, which is not more than a mile from your house. You can take her there, step back in your carriage and be home ten minutes later. Miss Lyndon and I go in another direction, and leave you to your pleasant homeward ride. Of course we must all meet again. It will require another evening to talk this one over."

We bade them good night, and hailing a carriage, I assisted my companion into it. The rather long ride homeward still lingers in my mind as a pleasant dream. The gentle swaying of the carriage as the rubber tires rolled noiselessly over the boulevard lulled us into half confidences. She told me quite a few things about herself. Her husband, an Englishman, had been in some diplomatic service in the orient, had died a year before, and she had now come back to her birthplace on matters of business. Unreservedly, she seemed to accept me as a thorough man of the world, and even did me the flattery to repeat some of my witticisms of the evening and laugh over them for a moment the second time. When I say that I was charmed I think I have expressed it.

In front of the formidable entrance to the building where she resided I assisted her to alight, and she thrust out her fingers which I took eagerly. The physical contact thrilled me from head to toe and the enchantment of her smile enthralled me. "You have entertained me delightfully. I feel flattered to have met you," she murmured. "And since you are a busy man by day, I hope you will call and see me some evening when you can think of nothing else to do. You can reach me over the phone at almost any time. I hope you will not forget me."

That anyone once seeing her could ever forget her! Nothing could be more ridiculous than the thought. I lightly laughed the idea to scorn as I

RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

By Common Garden Sage, a Simple Remedy for Dandruff, Falling, Faded, Gray Hair.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy, and gradually restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days, on account of souring quickly. This objection has been overcome, and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair, but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Hargrove and Mullin, Druggists, Rushville, Indiana.

bent over her hand. "Mrs. Dace, the old Roman general reported to his emperor, 'I came, I saw, I conquered.' To you I must report somewhat differently. 'I came, I saw, I am conquered.' I will pay you my tributes very soon. Until then life will be a necessity instead of a pleasure."

She tripped up the entrance steps and from their top sent me a flutter of her handkerchief and a flashing smile that made my blood leap as she vanished behind the heavy door. Back into the carriage I climbed and went home in an exhilaration of spirits that the wine did not account for. The scene had been cast and was being held wide to receive. Unsupprisingly the fish wiggled on.

The next day I happened to see Bruce. In the course of our conversation I casually asked him what he knew of my companion of the night before, and he began digging his fingers into his head as though trying to scratch out an answer. Presently it came:

"Let's see. I don't know that I can tell you very much—you know I never paid any particular attention to her," he began in a quizzical glance at me. "Still, if you will agree to keep it a family secret, I might remember a few things. Promise, honest Injun?"

"Honest Injun."

"Well, then, here goes. Mattie Maden was born in this town about thirty years ago of poor but dishonest parents. But she was a beauty, even as a girl, and people forgave her parentage on that account. She eloped out of school with a more or less account Englishman named Dace, who afterwards got into the service of his government over in India or some other outlandish place on the back of the map. He died with his boots on."

"How was he killed?" I inquired. Bruce grew a trifle more serious.

"Well, now, that is something I am no authority upon. I can only repeat

"I Wish You Will Tell Me Frankly—and Do It!"

to you in confidence what I have heard and read. But the report has it that it happened in a disagreement with a Russian nobleman over her—one of those cheerful little affairs that sometimes occur out that way, you know; referee and seconds to the front; wine and jealousy in the background; moon in the distance—you understand. Anyway it made a ripping good story for the journals. Next thing I heard of her she was back here. I hope you are not going to make a fool of yourself over her."

His general tone had slightly irritated me, but the last remark positively nettled. "No; I think one in the family is enough," I retorted. But he slipped the thrust aside in his usual smooth way, laughing.

"I guess that's right. Come to think of it, I never did know you to make a fool of yourself over anything, that does seem to be my specialty, doesn't it? But while I give you credit for having a better balanced head than I have, I'll tell you what I do in certain cases. When I get up against a proposition like cocaine in wine, or a woman like Mrs. Dace, I run for the fence. They are too blamed seductive to fool with and I don't take any chances with them."

one has got the beauty and graces of all the mythological goddesses combined, but that does not count for everything. If I remember rightly, those mythological goddesses were a pretty bad lot."

With the instinctive desire that Clare had possessed to fly to his defense, I now felt myself surging to Mrs. Dace's. But I held myself in leash. "Even assuming for the sake of argument that I should desire to make a fool of myself over her, what possible object could she have in encouraging me to such idiocy?" I asked. He puckered up his mouth and thrust his hands deep in his pockets.

"Well, now, that is one of the funny things about women. Of course we don't know much about them, but we do know this: We know that the only reason they care for us is because they can't get anything better. If the gods came to earth, the only thing left for man to do would be to cast himself like swine into the sea. And therein is where we differ from woman-kind. Man doesn't want angels; plain mortal woman—provided she is not too plain, of course—is good enough for him. But inasmuch as she can't achieve the gods, on this earth at least, she turns to man as the next best substitute. Now you are a strapping young fellow, good looking and all that, and such men have always interested women from the beginning. But remember, there are women and women. Take Clare, for instance. She is beautiful, too, and keeps herself looking as attractive as possible in order to make people like her. Yet she is as harmless as a butterfly. Some others aren't. You ought to know something of the species before you pick up a thing just because it is gaudy. You might get stung."

Absolutely without information concerning her beyond what Bruce himself had confided in me, half angry at myself that I should take the trouble to answer him, I nevertheless yielded to my impulse to defend her. With considerable emphasis I told him that I should refuse to believe any insinuations against her until I had positive knowledge of their truth. He listened silently, growing suddenly sober at my warmth, and when I had finished addressed me with a mollifying pat upon the back.

"Whew! I didn't think you were going to get so warmed up over a little thing like that. But you may be sure I have no desire to disparage your lady. I told you to start with that I knew almost nothing about her except by hearsay, and you know as well as I do what that sort of evidence is worth. They won't listen to it in law. She may be pure gold for all I know; but I was just warning you to keep your guard up until you have fished her out. But now I'll tell you something which I do know to be a fact. If you expect to hold a princess, you have got to be a prince of good fellows yourself and go out and buy her a new castle every few days. Furthermore, in this case, you are going to run up against a real dragon." I smiled.

"Dragons always get the worst of it in the story books; fire, smoke and all," I returned with a touch of sarcasm. But Bruce seemed very much in earnest.

"Well, you won't find this one any fairy tale beast that you can chop up with a tin sword. He is an up-to-date, high-gear, sixty-horse power, mile-a-minute juggernaut, and you had better keep out of his way or you'll get smashed."

"And the dragon is who?"

"Richard Mackay, boodler prince and political boss who was indicted by the grand jury in connection with that thirty-million dollar franchise grab from the city; and who by some means unknown to me escaped the cell that he ought to garnish," he shot over his shoulder as he turned away.

"Thank you ever so much," I retorted.

MODERN CHEMISTRY.

Prediction of a Scientist and Its Remarkable Verification.

When a mathematical astronomer in Paris gave a Berlin observatory a search warrant for a new planet and, turning his telescope as directed, the Berlin observer found the previously unknown planet all the world wondered. Equally remarkable have been a prediction and its verification in the history of modern chemistry. Grading the known elements of nature according to the weight of their respective atoms, it was observed that the elements, some seventy or more in number, formed a scale marked by periodicity like the scale in music. This periodic law in the hand of genius became an instrument of research. It was in 1871 that Mendeleef, the Russian chemist, in forming the scale of elements, found it necessary to leave three spaces vacant for undiscovered elements to make his table true.

Neither did he hesitate to predict the properties which these elements should possess when discovered. It was as if an astrologer should inform you that you would meet some time in your life three men and that with the utmost particularity he told you their respective physical weights, the color of their hair, the size of hat, shoe and glove worn by each and, in a word, all the habits of mind and body sufficient to discriminate them positively from all other men. Not only was the prediction literally fulfilled, but Mendeleef had the unexpected pleasure to see the verification in his day, for out of the night of the unknown one after another came the predicted elements into the clear sunlight of science and were instantly recognized.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Shall Bread Be Baked in the Home

By Prof. Henrietta W. Calvin
Household Economics Department,
Purdue University

Prof. Henrietta W. Calvin, Household Economics Department, Purdue University.

All intelligent women are now interested in discussing questions relating to industries in the home, and those that can, with advantage, be taken out from the home and be carried on in large factories or centers.

In regard to the production of bread, certain factors must be considered, as comparative cost of home produced article and that purchased; comparative quality and comparative cleanliness and general sanitary condition.

In considering the cost of home produced bread, it may be figured as follows:

Cost of flour—four loaves—3 lbs. $1.11
Cost of liquid—1 qt.—skim milk0214
Cost of yeast—1 cake compressed02
Cost of salt, sugar and lard01
Total cost of materials $.1044
Total cost of materials for one loaf. .0444

To the cost of materials must be added the cost of fuel, which will be used in the baking. If gas at one dollar per thousand is used, it will add two cents to the cost, making each loaf cost $.0444. If gasoline, at 17 cents per gallon is used, this will result in a fuel cost of .01½ for four loaves. If the ordinary coal range is used, the actual cost of baking will vary with the use made of other parts of the range at the same time, since a thrifty housewife will bake while cooking other foods or while ironing. If no other use is made of the range heat, then the cost of baking will be nearly the same as when gasoline is used. Thus it is figured that the actual cash cost of one loaf of home-made bread will be .04½, if made with compressed yeast. Home-made yeast will save about one-third of a cent in each loaf, or the actual cost will be about .03½.

This loaf will weight one pound. A baker's loaf weighs about thirteen ounces and will cost five cents, that is, four pounds of baker's bread costs 25 cents or four pounds of home-made bread costs about 18½ cents, or a gain in money saved of nearly seven cents. The time required for making bread is about one hour. There are many hours of a housewife's time that do not net her seven cents saving. There is little doubt but what the majority of housekeepers can so manage their duties that home baking will pay from the cash standpoint. A wage earning woman, such as a teacher, cannot afford to make her own bread, if it is considered from the money side only, nor could the overworked mother "afford" it if seven cents was all that was gained.

Then we come to consider the question of quality. The highest grade of materials have been used in the home-made article. It has the highest nutritive value. It, if rightly made, is sweet, well baked, palatable and attractive. Baker's bread is too often slightly acid, over-raised and under-baked. Under-baked bread contributes to dyspepsia and all its attendant evils. So it pays to make good home-made bread for digestive reasons.

Watch the baker's wagon being loaded in the early morning hours. The coat, the gloves that were worn when the horses were harnessed, are still on. The bread is piled high upon the sleeves of that arm. The bread is handled by those gloves. Is the bread wagon very clean? Does the man pile a good deal of bread on the front box and then pass the lines over it? In the hot summer days, do the flies rise from the filth of the road when the wagon stops and swarm into the wagon? Are you certain that the baker's shop kitchen is as clean as your own? Did you ever find something unattractive in your bread? Perhaps it pays to make home-made bread because of better sanitary conditions. Money is not the only measure of worth. The seven cents gain is but a part of the total gain.

Teaching the Young Tree How to Grow

By Prof. C. G. Woodbury
Horticultural Department, Purdue University

Prof. C. G. Woodbury, Horticultural Department Purdue University.

It is apparent to everyone that there is a state-wide movement for more and better fruit-for home use. If proof were needed to show that the horticultural revival is here, it could be found in the number of people of every class who are putting out fruit trees this spring. Thousands of these trees will prove a disappointment. Thousands will die within the next three months. They will die because they are not properly pruned. Young apple trees need to be almost remade if they are to grow satisfactorily. Young peaches receive a still more radical treatment before they learn how to grow into the right kind of trees. The education of the tree and tree owner progress together, each continually benefiting the other.

The first thing to do after receiving the trees is to unpack and heel them in. It is important that nursery stock remain in the box or bundle as short a time as possible. Before setting day comes the orchard should be laid off and if it is a small one, it is well to set a stake to indicate the position of each tree, taking care to get them properly lined up. A planting board may be used to get the tree in exactly the place occupied by the stake. The planting board is usually about six feet long with a notch or hole at each end and a notch on the edge half way between the ends. Before setting the young tree all diseased or broken roots should be cut off. The balance of the roots are usually cut back about a third. Don't leave an air space under the crown of the tree. Put the top soil about the roots and pack it firmly and carefully. Leave a little loose earth on top to prevent baking of the soil. After the tree is set it should be pruned as promptly as possible. Peach trees are pruned to a whip. Likewise one-year-old apples. Two-year apples are pruned as shown in the cut. The limbs are thinned out to not more than five; three will do it well distributed. These are headed back to three or four buds, leaving the last bud on the outside. The leader is also headed in, but may be left somewhat longer than the side branches.

This seems like a pretty hard lesson for the young tree. It profits, however, by the treatment. If the pruning is neglected under the mistaken impression that it checks the growth of the tree, death is likely to result. The moisture gathering ability of the root system is greatly reduced when the tree is dug from the nursery row. The leaf bearing growth has been developed to correspond to the moisture supply furnished by the entire root system. Hence it is necessary to reduce the leaf bearing wood to the point where the temporarily crippled root system can supply its demands. If we do not the leaves come out from the plant food already stored up in the tissues and transpire moisture from their surfaces faster than it can be supplied; result—the tree dries up and dies. It is this series of facts that makes it necessary to teach the tree by pruning how to grow evenly, top and branch.

LONGING.

For one transcendent moment,
Before the present, poor and bare,
Can make its sneering comment.
Longing is God's fresh heavenward will
With our poor earthward striving;
We quench it that it may be still—
Content with merely living;
But, would we learn that heart's full scope,
Which we are hourly wronging,
Our lives must climb from hope to hope
And realize the longing.
—James Russell Lowell.

WILLIS L. MOORE

Weather Bureau Chief Lays Out Program for the Week.

THE KIND OF WEATHER EXPECTED THIS WEEK

What Prof. Moore Has to Say On Fruitful Subject.

Washington, July 10.—Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau, has issued this statement on the weather outlook for the week:

In the middle Atlantic and New England states the week will begin with warm and generally fair weather, followed by local thunderstorms and a change to lower temperature Tuesday or Wednesday, and moderate temperature and probably fair weather thereafter until the close of the week, when showers are again probable. In the southern states the week will be one of seasonable temperature, with frequent thunderstorms. A change to lower temperature attended by showers will overspread the middle Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the region of the great lakes, Monday or Monday night, and will be followed by generally fair weather and moderate temperatures in those districts until the latter part of the week, when showers are again probable.

SENTENCED FOR LIFE

But Herbert Cobb Prefers Even That To Death Chair.

Hopkinsville, Ky., July 10.—Herbert Cobb was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Ella Cravens, last May. He will be taken to the Eddyville penitentiary. Cobb showed relief that his life had been spared. He is only twenty-one years old, and he said that he hated to think of having "a place like that as home for the rest of his life," but he indicated that even that was preferable to the electric chair.

Reconciled at Sight of Blood.

Paris, July 10.—Paul Tissandier and the Marquis Kergarion, the Journal's aviation circuit race commissioners, fought a duel at Liege, Belgium. The combat, in which some blood was drawn, was the outcome of a dispute over weather conditions. In the third bout with the foils, Kergarion received an inch deep wound in his right forearm, and the adversaries were declared reconciled.

His Swimming "Wings" Slipped.

Chicago, July 10.—Playing in the lake while his wife and son looked on from the veranda of a hotel at Highland Park, James Pettit, president of the Peavey Grain company, was drowned in four feet of water at the hotel swimming beach. His swimming "wings" slipped to his feet, thus overbalancing him.

PRISONER DEFENDS BROTHER

When John and William Gatlin of Kentucky Were Arraigned at Bloomington On Charge of Shooting With Intent to Kill An Indiana Merchant, John Took to Himself the Blame For Doing the Shooting.

Bloomington, Ind., July 10.—Before Mayor John G. Harris, John and William Gatlin, of Kentucky, were arraigned on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill George Alexander in front of the latter's residence on North College avenue. John Gatlin said that he had fired all the shots and asked the mayor to release his brother. The bond of John Gatlin was fixed at $2,000 and that of William Gatlin at $1,000. As neither was able to give bail, they will remain in jail until their preliminary trials.

George Alexander, the victim, will recover, so the surgeons say, if complications do not arise. An examination was made of the wounds, which showed the abdominal cavity was not pierced. After the shooting, Alexander declared that he was dying, and made arrangements concerning his lodge receipts and financial matters.

Several bullets were found near the scene of the shooting, and the only wonder is that some innocent bystander was not killed. One bullet was found in a shade tree, another in a residence, and another broke a clock in the Baugh livery barn office.

Officer H. E. Dudley, who was shot in the arm while chasing the brothers, will be unable to resume his place on the police force for two weeks. The Gatlins declare they did not shoot the officer, but that while he was beating them over the head with the butt of his revolver, the gun was accidentally discharged. He appeared against them at the arraignment, and will charge them with assault with intent to kill him.

FFEIGHT TRAIN IN DITCH

Flagman's Negligence Said to Be Responsible for Crash.

Logansport, Ind., July 10.—Thirteen cars and the engine of a Pennsylvania freight train on the Richmond division were piled up on the right of way between Walton and Anoka Junction. Engineer Charles W. Weiss, Fireman J. E. Lord and the head brakeman, J. G. McFall, were in the engine when the accident occurred, and each suffered severe injuries.

The wreck was caused, it is said, by failure of a flagman to warn the approaching train that a section gang had removed several rails from the track.

TRIBUTE TO DEAD

Soldiers' Monument Erected By W. R. C. of South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., July 10.—A monument to the unknown soldier and sailor dead, erected in the City Cemetery by Norman Eddy Woman's Relief Corps No. 1, was dedicated in the presence of a large crowd. The eulogy was delivered by Judge G. A. Farbaugh, who took as his theme, "Patriotism of Peace."

The exercises in connection with the unveiling were elaborate.

GAVE UNWITTING ALARM

Would-Be Suicide Balks Design by Starting Fire.

Goshen, Ind., July 10.—Harry Burns attempted suicide by swallowing poison. He then saturated his apartments with oil and applied a match, calmly awaiting cremation while lying on a bed. When firemen arrived in response to a alarm, Burns was carried from his home unconscious, and is now in a critical condition at the county jail. The house was destroyed.

ARE HURT IN RUNAWAY

Two Boys Narrowly Escape Death When Horses Break Away.

Frank Martin and Homer Larrison of Fountaintown were injured in a runaway accident which occurred about four miles south of Fountaintown late Friday afternoon. The two boys were returning home in a wagon from a trip into the country when their horses frightened and dashed down the road, overturning the wagon and pinning them beneath it. Luckily the horses broke away from the wreckage or both boys would undoubtedly have been killed. Young Martin was able to pull himself out from under the wagon, but the Larrison boy was rendered unconscious by the injuries he received.
